DETAILED ACTION

This action is responsive to Applicant's communication filed 9/28/2004.

Claims 7-18 have been added as new.

Claims 1-6 have been cancelled.

Claims 7-18 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fischer et al. (NPL – “Analysis of pressurized resistance vessel diameter changes with a low cost digital image processing device”) in view of Kishida et al. (U.S. 7,055,955 B2).

Fischer et al. teach a digital image processing device that utilizes images from a video camera and incorporates software which manipulates the captured image, said manipulation varying by filtering, calibrating, storing of vessel images, and also detects the outer and inner border of two vessel walls (see abstract). Fisher et al. teach in detail wherein the inner diameter and the vessel wall thickness are calculated and the diameter is presented in a diameter vs. time diagram.

Fischer et al. do not teach the use of laser Doppler images to measure the vessel thickness and comparing the inner vs. outer diameter using such.

Kishida et al. teach an eye examination apparatus and teach an apparatus which obtains the blood flow velocity in an eye fundus blood vessel and the vessel diameter of the measured blood vessel is obtained so as to measure the blood flow rate in the blood vessel (col. 1 lines 17-29).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have incorporated the teaching of Kishida et al. into that of Fischer et al. in order to provide for a measurement in vessel diameter and thickness as well as to provide for blood flow velocity.
